Writeup - Assignment 1

Derrick DeBose

    If the connection to the PUT request ended communication early then the file will have a reduced size. The bytes that were able to be written to the file descriptor on the server will be remembered in that file. The partial file may not be able to open due to the fact that a partial file like a pdf file will not open and run properly if the bottom half of the data is missing. This is the idea of an atomic object where reading and writing in a critical region will cause the partial data to be written but potentially not save all the streamed data.
